i-Werx Welcomes You!

By calling i-Werx, the least you will gain is logical & professional guidance.

i-Werx is a dedicated team of trained and certified professionals that have been assembled in order to pool unique talents and resources under one roof. In addition, a network of proven contract professionals and manufacturers, round out our wide range of capabilities. All of this allows us to provide you with a total solutions package for the majority of your technological needs. Whether you have a specialty need that your current resources are not able to produce, or you just need professionalism with excellent communications, reliability, and responsive service that is affordable for your home or business—Then i-Werx is the solution for you!

When you substitute quality for price, you generally get what you pay for. This is the IT golden rule. The trick is to find superior quality and service at a justified competitive rate from professionals that have been around many environments. This concept insures that the valued customer is entitled to a broader scope on their situation that could save them a fortune immediately, and over time.

i-Werx has created a unique business infrastructure that consists of business owners with over 30 years of working Computer/Network/Software/Web Development experience rolled in with business education and practice. Because of this knowledge, we are able to produce many lines of quality service at a highly competitive rate. Most non-versatile computing business owners charge you a higher rate to make up for their lack of knowledge and resources, causing undesirable relationships.
